

Jesse Reichert:

1863 Restaurant Chef

Jesse Reichert was introduced to the culinary world at the relatively young age of 15. Working his way through the various brigades of the kitchen, Reichert has contributed to the success of several local restaurants.

Self trained and enthused by the kitchen atmosphere, Reichert decided to pursue a position at Restaurant Sidney, a fine dining establishment with a great reputation in Adams County. There he worked under Owner/Chef Neil Annis. "Restaurant Sidney is where I really became passionate about cooking. I had the chance to experience and learn some really great things," says Reichert

Following three successful year's with Annis and enrolling at Wilson College where he is pursuing a bachelor degree in business management, Reichert was ready for a new challenge and took the position as Restaurant Chef of 1863 Restaurant at the Wyndham Gettysburg. Under the tutelage of Executive Chef Claude Rodier, Reichert brings his creative flair and passion for foods that are simple, fresh, and delicious to the Wyndham Gettysburg.

Driven by the support of his family, wife Andrea and daughter Ryan, Reichert continues to pursue his vision and grow as a Culinary Professional!
